'COMPLETE DEMOLITION'

Trump's ultimatum for Iran just hours away with little sign of breakthrough; the deadline for Iran to strike a ceasefire deal ends at 8 pm ET on Tuesday (5:30 am IST on Wednesday); Iran remains firm on its demands; Iran rejects flexibility as long as US demands surrender

'Whole civilization will die tonight'

A whole civilization will die tonight, never to be brought back again. I don't want that to happen, but it probably will. We will find out tonight, one of the most important moments in the long and complex history of the world.

—Donald Trump, US President

'14 million ready to sacrifice'

Over 14 million proud Iranians have, up to this moment, declared their readiness to sacrifice their lives in defence of Iran. I, too, have been, am, and will be a sacrificer for Iran.

—Masoud Pezeshkian, Iranian President

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday issued a fresh warning stating "whole civilisation will die tonight" as his deadline to Iran to reopen the Strait of Hormuz neared.

"A whole civilization will die tonight, never to be brought back again. I don't want that to happen, but it probably will," Trump said in a post on Truth Social.

"We will find out tonight, one of the most important moments in the long and complex history of the World."

Earlier, a US military official said they carried out additional strikes on military targets on Iran's Kharg island, adding the strikes did not impact oil infrastructure.

The US President has time and again issued threats to target Iranian structures and top officials. Last week Trump said that the US military had 'nearly accomplished its goals' in Iran, but offered no clear timeline for ending the monthlong war and vowed to bomb the country back into the "Stone Ages."

CALL TO FORM HUMAN SHIELDS

Iran's Deputy Sports Minister, Alireza Rahimi, separately called on the nation's athletes and artists to form "human chains" around power plants — a symbolic and physical attempt to deter potential airstrikes. In a video message, he invited youth, athletes, artists, students, and faculty to gather near power plants on Tuesday at 2 PM local time. "These are our wealth and belongings," he said. The call for human shields comes in response to Trump's "8:00 PM deadline" (Washington time, Tuesday night) for Iran to reopen the Strait of Hormuz.

Strikes hit Iran's Kharg Island

WASHINGTON

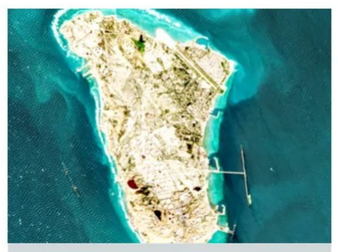
The US military on Tuesday hit 50 military targets on Kharg Island, Iran's strategic oil hub, according to The Wall Street Journal. The strikes, which were first reported by Iran's semi-official Mehr News Agency, came hours before a deadline set by US President Donald Trump for the Islamic Republic to strike a ceasefire deal ends at 8 pm ET onTuesday (5:30 am IST on Wednesday).

The strikes also came a day after Trump said he was "very upset" with Iran for rejecting his ceasefire plan and warned that Tehran would "pay a big price" if it failed to reach a deal. While Iran called for a permanent end to the conflict, now in its sixth week, under broader conditions, Trump indicated there would be serious consequences if no agreement is reached.

Restraint is over: IRGC

Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC) issued a warning following the US strikes on Kharg Island, saying 'restraint is over', sparking fresh concerns of a severe disruption to regional crude supplies.

The IRGC warned that it could turn energy infrastructure linked to the US and its allies "into ashes", threatening to disrupt oil and gas flows across the region "for years." The warning came after Trump said last weekend that he was considering whether US forces could seize the island.



Why Kharg Island is so important?

Kharg Island serves as Iran's main oil export terminal, handling up to 90% of its crude shipments and offering storage capacity of around 30 million barrels. Located about 26 km off Iran's coast and 483 km northwest of the Strait of Hormuz, Kharg is often dubbed the "Forbidden Island" due to its isolation and heavy security presence. Last month, the US struck military targets on Kharg Island, targeting military installations. The strikes destroyed naval mine storage and missile bunkers, while oil infrastructure was largely spared.

2 killed after US-Israeli attack on rail bridge in central Iran

Tehran: Two people lost their lives after a US-Israeli launched an attack on a rail bridge in the central Iranian city of Kashan, a regional official told state media on Tuesday. "A few minutes ago, the American-Zionist aggressor attacked the Yahya Abad railway bridge in Kashan city," a senior regional security official in Isfahan province, Akbar Salehi, was quoted as saying by Iran's IRNA news agency. "Two people were martyred, and three others were injured in this attack," he added. Following the attack, the key highway in northern Iran has been, according to the regional authorities.

Iran freezes diplomatic channels

Following the threats by Donald Trump, Iran on Tuesday froze all diplomatic channels and indirect talks. Iranian embassies in South Africa also responded to Trump's threats, saying, "You and your allies will suffer an unforgettable hit from the ancient civilization of Iran."

Iran railway movement disrupted

Railway movement in Iran's Mashhad was halted after Israel issued a warning advising Iranians to avoid using the country's railway network until 9 p.m. local time. In a post on X, the Israel Defense Forces' Farsi page cautioned that being near trains and railway lines "puts your lives in danger."

K'taka transport, tourism sectors seek urgent relief

Bengaluru: The Karnataka State Travel Operators' Association has urged the Centre to announce immediate financial aid for the transport and tourism sectors, citing severe distress caused by West Asia crisis. In a representation addressed to PM Modi on April 7, it stated the disruption of international travel and trade has significantly impacted business. Suspension of flights and reduced movement between countries have led to a sharp decline in demand, affecting transport operators and tourism stakeholders across Karnataka and the country.

Stay indoors, avoid military areas: India issues advisory

TEHRAN

The Indian Embassy in Iran issued an advisory warning its nationals in Iran to stay indoors and avoid military installations or multi-storey buildings for the next 48 hours amid the escalating US-Israel attacks on Tuesday.

The advisory comes even as the US and Israeli attacks on Iran targeted road, railway bridges and residential buildings in the country, apart from key oil hub Kharg Island.

"In continuation of previous advisories, Indian nationals who are still in Iran must stay where they are for the next 48 hours, avoiding all electric, military installations and upper floors of multi-storey buildings, remaining indoors, and coordinating any highway movement strictly with the Embassy," the embassy's advisory read.

It also urged those living in Embassy-hired hotels to stay put indoors while maintaining regular contact with on-site embassy teams. "All are requested to monitor official updates closely," it added.

US President Donald Trump has warned that a "whole civilization will die tonight" if Iran does not meet his 8 pm Eastern Time deadline (5:30 am Indian time, Wednesday) to end its blockade of the Strait of Hormuz.

FAITH BEYOND JUDICIAL REVIEW

Centre backs Sabarimala women entry restriction in SC

NEW DELHI

The Centre on Tuesday vehemently contended before the Supreme Court that the issue of restriction on the entry of women aged between 10 and 50 years at the Sabarimala temple falls within the domain of religious faith as well as denominational autonomy and is beyond the scope of judicial review.

A nine-judge Constitution bench headed by Chief Justice Surya Kant commenced hearing on petitions related to discrimination against women at religious places in various religions and the proceedings assumed significance as they started ahead of crucial assembly polls in Kerala, where the Sabarimala is located.

Referring to the right of religious freedom under Article 25 of the Constitution, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta appearing for the Centre, however, said courts can always intervene if religious practices violate 'public order', 'morality' and 'health'.

The top court observed that if there is a social ill which is branded as a religious practice then the court can examine whether it is an essential religious practice or a social evil.

The bench also comprising

Justices BV Nagarathna, MM Sundresh, Ahsanuddin Amanullah, Aravind Kumar, Augustine George Masih, Prasanna B Varale, R Mahadevan and Joymalya Bagchi was told by Mehta that if there is something unscientific, the remedy is with the legislature.

Justice Bagchi told Mehta that courts are not experts in science but the Evidence Act empowers the court to examine the opinions of experts and become an expert of experts.

Mehta submitted that he had strong objection to an observation in the 2018 Sabarimala judgment that the exclusion of women in the age group of 10-50 years from the temple was a form of 'untouchability', violating Article 17 of the Constitution.

Justice Nagarathna said a woman cannot be treated as "untouchable" for three days in a month and then cease to be considered untouchable on the fourth day. "Article 17 in the context of Sabarimala, I don't know how it can be argued. Speaking as a woman, there can't be a three-day untouchability every month, and on the fourth day, there is no untouchability," she observed.

Mehta said that he was not on the issue of menstruation. He said the bar on women's entry to the Sabarimala temple was not related to menstruation, and said the restriction was only on the basis of age group. "Let us be clear. Sabarimala concerns only a particular age group. There should be no confusion. Lord Ayyappa temples across the country and the world are open to women of all ages. It is a sui generis case," he said.

BRAHMAVAR

Acting on the directions of the district administration, sand dune clearance work has commenced at Nagarmath near Barakur in Udupi district. The initiative aims to restore the natural flow of the Sita river and address the growing demand for sand in the region. The sand dunes had accumulated over an area of approximately 8.90 acres of government land at Nagarmath, located along the Sita river in Hosala village under the Barakur gram panchayat. Chairing a review meeting at the Deputy Commissioner's office on April 7, Khader emphasized the importance of proactive measures to prevent water scarcity in both urban and rural areas.

He directed officials from local bodies, including gram panchayats and urban civic authorities, to prioritize uninterrupted water supply and address any local issues at their respective levels without delay.

The Speaker stressed that all departments and agencies involved in water supply must work in close coordination to ensure smooth functioning of drinking water schemes. He also pointed out that roads dug up for pipeline installation must be restored promptly to avoid inconvenience to the public.

Officials also discussed the need for installing water meters in households that are yet to be covered under the scheme. Data on such households must be compiled and proposals sent to the government for additional funding, Khader said.

Meanwhile, district officials reiterated that completed water supply projects should only be handed over to local bodies after full completion, and contractors must ensure maintenance for at least one year. The meeting also included a field inspection of water supply conditions in Ullal and surrounding areas.

Watermelon Takes Center Stage as Sacred Offering at Polali Temple Festival

MANGALURU

The Rajarajeshwari Temple in Polali, regarded as one of the oldest temples in Dakshina Kannada district, is currently hosting its grand annual fair. Unlike most temple festivals where traditional sweets or coconuts are offered as prasadam, Polali stands out for its unique custom of offering watermelon to devotees. This distinctive tradition has become the main attraction of the festival, drawing visitors from across the region. The age-old practice continues to be a defining feature of the famous Polali festival.

During the month-long fair, which typically runs from March to April, watermelons are sold in large quantities in the local market surrounding the temple. Devotees firmly believe that these fruits hold religious significance as prasadam of the temple and are eager to purchase them, often regardless of the price. The demand for watermelons during this period remains exceptionally high. Interestingly, only watermelons cultivated in the Polali region are sold during the festival. These fruits are grown by local farmers, many of whom are not full-time agriculturists but cultivate watermelons as a seasonal activity associated with the temple fair. This practice not only sustains a unique cultural tradition but also provides supplementary income to local residents. Adding to the mystique of the tradition, locals believe that watermelon cultivation in the area is closely tied to the festival period. According to them, if the seeds are sown outside the specific season linked to the Polali fair, the vines may not grow or bear fruit successfully. This belief further strengthens the spiritual connection between the fruit and the temple rituals.

UDUPI

A unique blend of tradition, devotion, and youthful talent has captured public attention in Karnataka's coastal region, as a Class 7 student from Ajekaru Shirlal has brought alive an age-old ritual through his remarkable performance. The young boy, associated with Sri Brahmamugerakala Kshetra, has painted the Kolam of a female deity and performed a sacred Kola dance, earning widespread appreciation and going viral across social platforms.

Samarth, a student of Shirlalu School, has embraced his family's traditional art form at a very young age. Following in the footsteps of his grandfather and father, he has begun practicing divine dance rituals deeply rooted in the culture of Tulunadu. His dedication and devotion have impressed locals, who see his efforts as a continuation of a sacred lineage.

Under the guidance of his grandfather Harish and his father, Samarth has carefully learned the intricate practices associated with the ritual. In a significant part of the ceremony, he painted his mother to resemble a goddess and performed the Kola with devotion. His early mastery of such a complex and spiritually significant tradition has been widely appreciated in the community.

The Kola ritual itself is steeped in strict customs and beliefs. Traditionally, those who perform the deity's Kola are expected to be unmarried, and the ritual usually begins in the early hours around 2 a.m. One of the distinctive elements includes tying black beads as part of the ceremonial attire. Additionally, there is a symbolic tradition of 'marrying' the female deity during the ritual, reflecting deep spiritual significance.

The young boy's performance has been praised not only for its authenticity but also for preserving cultural heritage. At a time when many traditional practices face the risk of fading away, Samarth's commitment stands as a beacon of hope for cultural continuity.

Widely lauded, the 12-year-old's divine dance has become a matter of pride for the Tulunadu region. His story highlights how tradition can thrive through the younger generation, keeping centuries-old customs alive and relevant in modern times.

Mangaluru, Udupi Lead Air Quality Improvement in Karnataka Amid Health Concerns

Coastal cities Mangaluru and Udupi recorded notable improvement in air quality, offering relief across Karnataka, though experts warned that pollution levels in several regions remain a cause for concern

MANGALURU

After experiencing hazardous air conditions in recent days, multiple parts of Karnataka, including Bengaluru, have reported gradual improvement in air quality. The shift has brought some respite to residents who had been facing unsafe breathing conditions due to rising pollution levels.

According to available data, Bengaluru registered an Air Quality Index (AQI) of 97, indicating a significant improvement compared to the severely poor levels recorded earlier. However, experts cautioned that despite the better readings, the air quality in the city still falls within a range that can negatively affect health, particularly for sensitive groups.

Mangaluru and Udupi emerged as the leading cities in terms of improved air conditions, benefiting from relatively cleaner coastal environments and favorable weather patterns. Their improved AQI levels contributed to an overall positive trend across the state. Despite these improvements, environmental specialists stressed that the situation is far from normal. They noted that while AQI figures have shown slight fluctuations, the current levels still do not meet the safety benchmarks recommended by the World Health Organization. Prolonged exposure to such pollution levels can lead to respiratory issues and other health complications.

Experts further highlighted that while short-term improvements are encouraging, sustained efforts are required to address the root causes of air pollution. Measures such as reducing vehicular emissions, regulating industrial pollution, and promoting green initiatives remain critical for long-term air quality management.

The recent improvement has provided temporary relief, but authorities and residents alike have been urged to remain cautious and continue monitoring pollution levels as Karnataka navigates ongoing environmental challenges.

Technical Glitch Disrupts Power Billing Process, Consumers Express Concern

UDUPI

Under normal circumstances, electricity board personnel conduct meter readings between the first and fifteenth of every month, ensuring timely billing and payment cycles. However, this month, the process was initiated only on the first day and then abruptly halted, leaving many households without updated bills.

This sudden stoppage has triggered anxiety among consumers, who fear billing inaccuracies, delayed payments, and possible financial strain, especially in light of the recent electricity tariff revision announced by the government. Similar complaints have also surfaced from areas served by Bangalore Electricity Supply Company and Hubli Electricity Supply Company, indicating a wider issue affecting multiple power distribution networks in the state.

According to official sources, the disruption has been caused by a technical malfunction in the server linked to the Total Revenue Management system, which is responsible for monitoring billing operations. Since the billing infrastructure is managed by a private agency, the server issue has led to a complete suspension of meter reading activities.

While authorities have indicated that the technical glitch is likely to be resolved within a couple of days, speculation and rumors about a potential cyberattack have further contributed to public confusion and concern.

Despite the prevailing uncertainty, officials have urged consumers not to panic. They have assured that the delay in meter readings will be accounted for in the billing cycle, ensuring that customers are charged only for their actual electricity usage. Authorities clarified that the number of delayed days will be adjusted proportionately, preventing any inflated billing.

Consumers across the jurisdiction of Mangalore Electricity Supply Company are facing uncertainty and concern following an unexpected disruption in the monthly electricity meter reading and billing process.

Furthermore, officials emphasized that the recent tariff hike will not be reflected in the current billing cycle.

Consumers will continue to be billed based on their actual consumption without any additional burden for this month.

Once the technical issue is resolved, meter reading operations will resume promptly, and pending bills will be distributed without causing further inconvenience to households.

This growth has been described as the highest in the institution's long history, underlining the effectiveness of its strategic initiatives and governance.

The bank's financial strength has also improved, with its net worth increasing to Rs 91.80 crore from Rs 83.76 crore in the previous year. During the last financial year, new branches were opened in Byndoor and Santhekatte, enhancing its reach to customers.

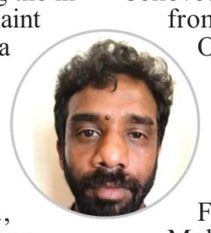
Man Arrested for Mosque Donation Box Theft

SULLIA

The Sullia Police have successfully arrested a 35-year-old man in connection with the theft of a donation collection box from a mosque premises in Goonadka, Sampaje. The swift action by the police has brought relief to the local community and marked a significant breakthrough in the case.

The theft incident occurred on March 30, 2024, within the jurisdiction of the Sullia police station. Following the incident, a formal complaint was registered, and a case was booked under Crime No. 45/2024. The police invoked Section 303(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, which deals with theft-related offences, to initiate legal proceedings against the unknown criminal at the time.



According to police sources, the accused had allegedly targeted the mosque premises during a time when there was minimal public presence, making it easier to carry out the theft unnoticed. The theft of the donation box, commonly used for charitable contributions by devotees, had caused concern among the local residents and mosque authorities. Acting on specific leads and intelligence inputs, the police launched a detailed investigation, tracking movements and gathering evidence from various sources. Their efforts led them to Elimale in Kemraje area of Sullia, where the suspect was located and apprehended on April 6. The accused has been identified as Mohammed Salman (35), a resident of West Godavari district in Andhra Pradesh.

During the investigation, the police were able to recover Rs 2,000 in cash, which is believed to have been stolen from the collection box. Officials stated that the recovery of the stolen amount played a crucial role in strengthening the case against the accused. Following his arrest, Mohammed Salman was produced before the Sullia court, which remanded him to 14 days of judicial custody. Police officials have indicated that further investigation is underway to determine if the accused was involved in similar theft cases in other areas.

The successful resolution of the case highlights the efficiency and prompt response of the police department. Authorities have also urged the public to remain vigilant and report any suspicious activities to help prevent such incidents in the future.

LPG SHORTAGE DISRUPTS TRANSPORT AND CATERING SECTORS

UDUPI

A severe shortage of Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) has triggered widespread disruption in Udupi, affecting both the transportation and catering sectors. The crisis has forced many to abandon LPG and switch to costlier and less efficient alternatives, raising concerns about livelihoods and economic stability in the region.

The shortage has hit auto-rickshaw drivers particularly hard. A large number of drivers had earlier shifted to LPG as a cleaner and more economical fuel option. Until recently, LPG was available at refueling stations in Kinni Mulki, Bannanje, and Barkur at around Rs 62 per kilogram. However, due to the ongoing shortage, prices have surged dramatically to nearly Rs 120 per kilogram, making it financially unsustainable for many drivers.

As a result, several auto-rickshaw operators have switched back to petrol despite its higher running costs, while others have been forced to suspend operations entirely. Many drivers have parked their vehicles and are now seeking temporary alternative employment to cope with the income loss.

The catering and hospitality sector is also facing a serious crisis. Restaurants, hotels, and small eateries are struggling to procure commercial LPG cylinders as supply chains remain disrupted. In desperation, some business owners are purchasing cylinders from the black market at prices nearly three times higher than normal, significantly increasing operational costs.

To keep their businesses running, many small establishments have reverted to traditional cooking methods using firewood, kerosene stoves, and air-blower systems. This shift has led to a surge in demand for these alternatives, especially blower systems that enhance heat efficiency. However, suppliers report that these systems are currently in short supply.

Orders for blower stoves, typically sourced from cities like Bengaluru and Belgaum, are facing delays of 25 to 40 days due to high demand and supply constraints. Additionally, the cost of these systems, including taxes and transportation, ranges between Rs 38,000 and Rs 45,000, further burdening small business owners.

Experts attribute the LPG shortage in Udupi to global geopolitical tensions involving a major gas-exporting nation, which has disrupted supply chains.

TRAGIC HIGHWAY DEATH

Woman Killed in KSRTC Bus Accident While Crossing Highway in Coastal Town

KUNDAPUR

A tragic road accident claimed the life of a 62-year-old woman after she was struck by a bus operated by Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation on the night of April 6 at Thekkatte along National Highway 66.

The incident has raised fresh concerns over road safety and negligent driving on busy highways.

The deceased has been identified as Alimabi, a resident of Gandhi Nagar in Koteshwar. According to initial reports, she had attended a wedding reception in Thekkatte earlier in the evening. At around 10 pm, while attempting to cross the highway along with three other women to return home, she was hit by a KSRTC bus travelling from Mangaluru towards Badami-Aihole.

Eyewitnesses at the scene alleged that the bus was being driven at high speed and that negligence on the part of the driver led to the fatal accident. The force of the collision caused severe injuries to Alimabi, particularly to her head and body, resulting in her death on the spot. The sudden and violent nature of the accident left bystanders in shock.

Local residents and police personnel quickly responded to the incident. The body was shifted to the Government Hospital in Kundapur, where post-mortem procedures are being conducted.

Authorities are expected to investigate the circumstances surrounding the accident, including the role of speeding and adherence to traffic regulations.

Alimabi is survived by four sons and one daughter. Her death has brought immense grief to her family, especially considering that two of her children, one son and one daughter, are mentally challenged and were entirely dependent on her care. With her sudden demise, concerns have emerged within the local community about the future and well-being of the dependent children.

The incident has once again highlighted the urgent need for stricter enforcement of traffic rules and improved pedestrian safety measures on national highways to prevent such heartbreaking tragedies.

Park wrong, pay big as towing returns to B'luru

Citywide towing aims to curb illegal parking and traffic congestion. GBA and traffic police launch joint action, with fines of ₹650 for bikes and ₹1,000 for cars

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

In a major move to tackle Bengaluru's worsening traffic congestion, authorities have officially restarted towing operations across the city from Monday after a long gap. The decision comes as part of a coordinated effort between the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) and the Traffic Police Department to clear illegal parking and improve road discipline.

The towing drive, which was initially tested on a trial basis in central parts of the city, has now been expanded across Bengaluru following its successful implementation. Officials say the focus is not only on easing traffic flow but also on ensuring that footpaths and roadside spaces are not misused by parked vehicles.

As per the revised enforcement, vehicles found parked in unauthorized locations will be towed away and fined. Two-wheelers will attract a penalty of Rs 650, which includes both the fine and towing charges. For four-wheelers, the total penalty has been fixed at Rs 1000. Authorities have clearly stated that the fine component will go to the Traffic Police Department, while the towing charges will be credited to the GBA.

To strengthen the operation, at least two towing vehicles have been assigned to each GBA zone. Towing vehicles have already been handed over to the Traffic Police in North and Central divisions. The officials have also prepared a list of abandoned vehicles lying on roadsides, and these will be the first to be removed as part of the drive.

Strict instructions have been issued to motorists to park only in designated 'parking bays'. Vehicles parked outside these marked areas will face immediate action. GBA Commissioner has directed the Traffic Police to enforce the rules strictly to ensure better traffic management across the city.

Authorities believe that consistent enforcement of these measures will help reduce congestion and improve accessibility for pedestrians, making city roads safer and more organized.

144 TICKET TOUTS HELD IN BENGALURU RAIL DIVISION

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

With the demand for train tickets increasing, especially during festive seasons and other peak demand periods, the Railway Protection Force (RPF) is dealing with a significant challenge of touts, who book live tickets without proper authorisation and sell them to passengers for a commission.In 2025-26, as many as 144 such touts were arrested in South Western Railway's (SWR) Bengaluru division alone.

RPF officials said the presence of touts usually increases during peak demand periods and in Tatkal quota. The touts arrested in 2025-26 were caught with 277 live tickets, most in bulk, which RPF estimated to be worth just over Rs 4 lakh. These touts are mostly those who pretend to be agents without getting licence from Indian Railway Catering and Tourism Corporation (IRCTC)

They create their own passwords with their phone numbers by buying 2-3 sim cards. Then they create multiple user IDs without licence, said a senior Bengaluru division RPF officer. Touts usually book tickets online in bulk when they are opened for sale 60 days before journey date. However, with the online push by IRCTC, RPF said the numbers have come down in recent years. We're suggesting that all passengers opt for the online mode to buy tickets and this is part of the railway strategy to curb the menace of unending queues and alterca-tions happening near booking windows.

We're actively engaged in online surveillance, we have a cyber cell within the division and in that cell, we analyse the charts and ticket reservation patterns to figure out the touts, Bengaluru RPF's Senior Divisional Security Commissioner, Shreyans Chinchawade, told. However, the huge push towards online tickets has impacted the economically weaker sections who lack funds to pay the commission for registered agents. Migrant workers often camp in reservation offices a night before to book Tatkal tickets. One such incident at Bengaluru Cantonment last week had led to brawls between passengers over long queues.

Biklu murder: Govt goes to HC for cancellation of Byrathi's bail

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The state government (CID) has filed a petition in the High Court seeking quashing of the order of the Special Court of People's Representatives granting bail to KR Pura MLA Byrathi Basavaraj in the murder case of rowdy sheeter Shivaprakash alias Biklu Shiva.

The CID investigating officer has filed a criminal application seeking the quashing of the order issued by the city's Special Court of People's Representatives on March 12, 2026. The investigation into the case has not been completed yet. The accused was granted bail while the investigation was ongoing. Due to this, it has been impossible to complete the investigation into the case. Therefore, it has been requested in the petition that the accused's bail be cancelled.

The Special Court of People's Representatives, which had granted bail to the accused, had already completed the investigation into the case while the applicant was in police custody. The fact that there is no need to conduct further investigation in police custody will be clear from the remand application filed by the CID investigators. Therefore, the applicant can be granted bail with strict conditions, it had granted bail.

Rowdysheeter Biklu Shiva alias Shivaprakash was murdered in July 2025 in front of a house near Halasuru Lake in Bengaluru. South to east, layout approvals map city's shifting growth

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

The evolution of the city's urban sprawl can be traced not only through skylines, but also through layouts on paper. Data from Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) shows how the city's growth has steadily moved across regions over the past five decades, following land, jobs, and infrastructure changes. Between 1972 and 2025, BDA approved 1,017 layouts across the city.

In the early decades, development was firmly rooted in south Bengaluru, which still accounts for 40-43 percent of all approved layouts. Neighbourhoods such as Uttarahalli, Begur, and Kengeri became the first major hubs of planned expansion, together accounting for hundreds of layouts. Large parcels of land, coupled with proximity to the city's older core, made the southern belt a natural starting point for organised growth.

But by the 1980s and 1990s, the city's expansion had begun to shift. North Bengaluru, particularly Yeshwantpur and Yelahanka, saw a rise in layout approvals, driven largely by cooperative housing societies.

This marked a phase where organised residential planning began to spread beyond the southern base. The next major shift came after 2000, when the city's growth tilted eastwards.

What had once been peripheral zones with limited presence in BDA records emerged as key sites of new development, reflecting the pull of employment hubs and improved connectivity. A senior BDA official said the pattern of approvals closely mirrors demand and infrastructure. Applications are placed before the town planning committee. After the committee's approval, a plan is issued. We go through all the documents to ensure that the plan approvals are in line with the rules and regulations, the official said, adding that applications are now coming in from across the city. Despite these geographic shifts, one constant stands out: the dominance of residential growth. Nearly 90 percent of all approved layouts, about 900 are residential, while industrial and commercial layouts together account for fewer than 20.

'1 in 10 layouts undergoes revisions'

At least one in 10 layouts has undergone revisions after initial approval, often to accommodate changes in design or infrastructure as demand rises. Taken together, the numbers sketch a clear trajectory: from south-led expansion to northward spread, and then an eastward push shaped by the IT economy. In doing so, BDA's layout approvals offer a blueprint of how Bengaluru has grown and continues to reshape itself.

No cdomestic LPG crunch: 'CM, DyCM waiting to light fire'

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

There is no problem with LPG for homes. Opposition leader R. Ashok has alleged that the Chief Minister and Deputy Chief Minister are waiting to set fire to it.

Speaking at the Malleshwaram BJP office, he hit back at the state government criticizing the central government over the LPG and auto gas problem in the state, saying that first DKSH should apologize to the people of the state. DKSH is making a fuss about the gas issue. It is not just a problem for our state, it is a problem for all countries. In Pakistan, a very favorite country of the Congress, a country that Rahul Gandhi admires, the price of petrol is Rs 500. What does the Congress say about this? He asked.

The person who planted the cooker bomb is also from Pakistan. The person who planted the cooker bomb is not called DK Shivakumar's brother. DK Shivakumar should have known what is happening in Pakistan, Bangladesh, America and London first. Even though there is a war going on, Modi has talked to Iran and released the ships. The ships are coming from Iran smoothly. He said he is thankful to Modi for this.

MLA Ashwath Narayan responded, saying that the state government should talk with figures. Let them say how much supply, how much shortage. People have a problem. But the government should talk correctly with figures.

The central government has increased the availability of commercial cylinders. But some people are taking advantage of this. Some are selling in the black market. The state government should control this. It is not right for the Congress to talk about politics without doing this work.

Flyover likely to open for traffic in early August as GBA speeds up work; pending hurdles near St. John's cleared Bengaluru's long-awaited Ejipura flyover is finally nearing completion, with authorities confirming that the structure will be opened for vehicular movement in the first week of August. The Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) has intensified efforts to complete the remaining work within the set timeline.

According to GBA Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao, nearly 70% of the flyover construction has already been completed. He stated that the entire project is expected to be finished by the end of July, paving the way for its public opening soon after. One of the major hurdles that had slowed down the project, installation of pillars near St. John's, has now been resolved. With this issue cleared, construction activities have picked up pace significantly. Officials have also accelerated segment casting work to ensure there are no further delays.

To meet the deadline, strict instructions have been given to carry out construction work round the clock. Authorities have directed teams to work continuously for 24 hours to fast-track completion.

Alongside the main flyover structure, ramp construction is also being expedited. Special focus has been placed on completing the down ramp towards Madiwala at the earliest, as it is a crucial component for smooth traffic flow once the flyover is operational.

GBA officials believe that once opened, the Ejipura flyover will ease congestion in one of the city's busiest corridors and improve connectivity for commuters. The project, which has faced delays in the past, is now in its final stages with visible progress on the ground.

Accidental fire destroys farmer's millet bins

MAGADI

A devastating accidental fire near Hosapete village in Magadi destroyed two large millet bins belonging to farmer Narasimhaiah, wiping out his cattle fodder and causing a loss estimated at ₹80,000. The fire occurred after the farmer had recently completed threshing millet grown on his two acres of land.

Narasimhaiah had stored the dry millet in bins to ensure sufficient fodder for his cattle during the upcoming rainy season and summer. However, strong winds caused the fire to spread rapidly, and despite efforts by locals, the bins were completely burnt to ashes.

Speaking about the incident, Narasimhaiah expressed deep distress, saying, "We had grown our crops with great difficulty. Now all the fodder is lost, and we are worried about feeding our cattle in the coming days." He urged government and revenue officials to visit the site immediately and provide proper compensation.

Villagers quickly gathered at the site to console the farmer and called for prompt action by authorities. Village leaders and farmers demanded that officials inspect the site without delay and ensure maximum compensation as per government rules.

WATER BLOCKADE THREAT

Farmers warn massive protest over water allocation

MAGADI

Taluk Farmers' Association President Hosapalya Lokesh has warned of a major blockade on April 17 if Cauvery water meant for Magadi lakes is diverted to the Dabaspet industrial area.

Speaking at a press conference at the town's tourist center on Monday, Lokesh said the government has allocated Hemavati water to fill Magadi taluk lakes. However, despite opposition from Tumkur's elected representatives, the government has been supplying water to Dabaspet industrial area through large pipelines running across Magadi town. The work has reportedly damaged hundreds of trees and local roads.Lokesh demanded that Magadi lakes receive water first, followed by supply to the industrial area. He called for a meeting between officials and the farmers' association to clarify the quantity and rate of water being sent. Otherwise, he threatened to block the road at Hospet Circle and dismantle pipelines using JCBs.He highlighted the growing hardships in Magadi taluk, including drinking water shortages, insufficient electricity, malfunctioning motor pumps, stalled village water projects, and poor bus connectivity. Lokesh also stressed the importance of desilting Tippagondanahalli reservoir, which could improve water levels in the Magadi-Kunigal region. Despite over ₹100 crore being released for the project, it remains incomplete.A massive bike rally from Magadi to Tippagondanahalli reservoir is planned on April 28 by the Taluk Raitha Sangh, and police cooperation has been requested.Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Congress rift deepens over leader absence controversy

AFZALPUR

At a Murum road foundation event, MLA absence disappointed Congress workers; allegations arose that KKRTC President Patil blocked attendance, despite Korabu funding 2.5 km road himself

Internal differences within the Congress party in Afzalpur have come to the surface after a controversy over MLA M.Y. Patil's absence from a road project event in Mashal village.

The foundation stone laying program for a Murum road was organized under the leadership of Congress Backward Classes State Vice President J.M. Korabu. The MLA was expected to attend, but his absence led to dissatisfaction among party workers.

There are allegations that KKRTC President Arunkumar Patil, who is the MLA's son, prevented him from attending the event. This claim has triggered anger among local Congress leaders.

When MLA M.Y. Patil later visited Korabu's residence, Korabu became emotional and expressed his disappointment. He said he had collected money from farmers without any government support to complete the 2.5 km road work and expected the MLA's presence as a sign of respect.

Korabu also stated that while he respects the MLA, he has lost trust in his son. In response, the MLA clarified that his absence was not intentional and was due to prior commitments. He assured that he had no intention of hurting anyone and promised to resolve the issue.

The incident has highlighted growing internal conflicts within the party. Recently, former minister Malikaiah Guttedar had also criticized Arunkumar Patil.

Some leaders have accused Arunkumar Patil of favoring his supporters while ignoring leaders from minority, Dalit, and backward communities, further deepening the divide.

This year's slogan is "Let's stand together with science for health."

Deputy Commissioner urges united fight against child labor

RAICHUR

Additional Deputy Commissioner Shivananda has urged all departments to work together to eliminate child labor, calling it a serious social problem. He spoke while presiding over the District Level Coordination Committee Meeting of the Labor Department at the New District Commissioner's Office Hall on Tuesday.

Shivananda emphasized that coordination between departments is essential to prevent child labor and juvenile work. Officers under the Child Labor and Juvenile Labor (Prohibition and Regulation) Act were instructed to actively participate in surprise inspections and raids. Children found working illegally must be protected, rehabilitated, and brought back into mainstream education.

He further stressed that labor department officials should regularly inspect hazardous workplaces such as factories, garages, hotels, and shops. Frequent inspections, he said, will deter employers from employing children. Families of rescued children should also be provided with social security benefits and support to strengthen their financial situation.

Shivananda highlighted the importance of enforcing the Child Marriage Prohibition Act, 2006. Girls under 18 and boys under 21 entering marriage are considered child marriages, and legal action must be taken. He called for public awareness programs to educate people on this issue.

Additional District Superintendent of Police Kumaraswamy assured full police cooperation in eradicating child labor. He instructed officers to report any challenges in registering cases immediately to ensure swift action.

Officials from various departments attended the meeting, including Raichur Assistant Commissioner Dr. Hampanna Sajjan, Labor Department District Officer Aarti, Health and Family Welfare Officer Dr. Surendra Babu, Backward Classes Welfare Officer Sunitha, Assistant Director of Agriculture Pushpa, and Child Development Project Officer Manjunath. Shivananda concluded that proper enforcement of the Child Labor Prohibition Act and coordinated action by all departments can protect children, prevent exploitation, and promote their education and well-being.

Phoolka opposes govt move to amend Guru Granth Sahib Satkar Act

NEW DELHI

Senior advocate and BJP leader HS Phoolka on Tuesday criticised the Punjab government's proposed amendments to the Jagat Jyot Shri Guru Granth Sahib Satkar Act, 2008, calling it a serious threat to Sikh religious sentiments and urging the community to oppose the move. Phoolka expressed concern over the Punjab government's decision to amend the 2008 Act without consulting the Shiromani Gurdwara Parbandhak Committee (SGPC), the apex body responsible for managing Sikh gurdwaras. He termed the move a massive attack on the Sikh religion and said any changes related to religious matters must involve due consultation with representative institutions.

Bail granted to Sukesh Chandrashekhar in money laundering case

NEW DELHI

A Delhi court has granted bail to alleged conman Sukesh Chandrashekhar in a money laundering case, citing the fundamental right to personal liberty and the need for a speedy trial as key grounds for the decision. In its order, the court observed that prolonged incarceration without the likelihood of an early conclusion of trial violates constitutional protections. Emphasising the importance of personal liberty, the court noted that an accused cannot be kept in custody indefinitely when the judicial process is expected to take considerable time. The bail was granted under Section 479 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), which provides for the release of an accused after completing half of the maximum prescribed sentence in custody.

Rahul hails Kerala nurses for their skill, kindness

LS LEADER OF OPPOSITION DESCRIBED THEM AS THE BACKBONE OF INDIA'S HEALTHCARE SYSTEM, WHILE ALSO ACKNOWLEDGING THE CHALLENGES THEY FACE IN THEIR PROFESSION

NEW DELHI

Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha Rahul Gandhi on Tuesday lauded nurses from Kerala, describing them as the backbone of India's healthcare system, while also acknowledging the challenges they face in their profession.

Taking to the social media platform X, Rahul Gandhi shared his appreciation for the dedication and compassion shown by nurses, particularly those from Kerala.

He stated that their selflessness and empathy play a crucial role in ensuring that families feel secure when entrusting their loved ones to medical care.

The remarks were accompanied by a video interaction in which Gandhi engaged directly with a group of nurses. During the discussion, participants spoke candidly about the realities of working in India's healthcare system, shedding light on systemic issues such as heavy workloads, staff shortages, and limited opportunities for career growth.

One nurse highlighted the challenge of balancing patient care with time constraints, noting that the demanding nature of the job often leaves little room for meaningful interaction with patients. Despite their desire to provide emotional support, nurses said they are frequently overwhelmed by the sheer number of cases they must handle daily.

The conversation also touched upon the growing trend of nurses seeking employment abroad. While many expressed a preference to remain in India, they acknowledged that better working conditions and structured systems in countries like the United Kingdom often serve as strong incentives. Nurses pointed out that consistent shift structures and hourly pay models abroad offer greater financial stability compared to India's fragmented schedules.

Another major concern raised was the lack of clear career progression pathways within India. Nurses explained that advancing in the profession typically requires higher academic qualifications, such as postgraduate degrees, which can be both time-consuming and financially challenging.

Participants also drew attention to the acute shortage of healthcare personnel in the country. In some cases, they revealed, as many as 20 nurses are required to care for nearly 100 patients, highlighting the immense pressure on existing staff.

Reflecting on their experiences during the COVID-19 pandemic, nurses recounted stepping beyond their traditional roles during emergencies. Some even performed critical medical procedures under extreme circumstances, underscoring their commitment during times of crisis.

ODISHA COPS LAUNCH MASSIVE RAID ON CATTLE MAFIA

BHUBANESWAR

The Odisha Police on Tuesday launched a large-scale crackdown on illegal cattle smuggling, carrying out simultaneous raids at multiple locations across Balasore, Bhadrak, and Mayurbhanj districts, officials said.

Deputy Inspector General of Police (Eastern Range), Balasore, Pinak Mishra informed the media that search operations were conducted at around 32 locations linked to individuals suspected of involvement in organised cattle transportation networks.

These locations had been identified through extensive investigations into cases reported in recent years.

The operation involved a significant deployment of personnel, including 18 platoons of police forces, eight Additional Superintendents of Police, 17 Deputy Superintendents of Police, 25 inspectors, and 67 Sub-Inspector and Assistant Sub-Inspector-level officers. The coordinated raids were carried out simultaneously across the three districts to dismantle what officials described as an entrenched and organised illegal trade.

According to Mishra, the action was based on intelligence inputs gathered from a detailed review of multiple cases of illegal cattle transportation in the region. During the raids, police seized more than Rs 50 lakh in cash, along with substantial quantities of gold and silver ornaments. Several vehicles allegedly used in the transportation of cattle were also confiscated.

The police are carrying out simultaneous raids at multiple locations across Balasore, Bhadrak, and Mayurbhanj districts to crack large-scale cattle smuggling network.

In a significant development, the police recovered firearms and other dangerous weapons from the targeted locations, indicating that the smuggling operations were backed by organised criminal networks. Officials emphasized that the presence of weapons highlighted the seriousness and scale of the illegal activities.

Reiterating the department's stance, Mishra stated that the police are adopting a zero-tolerance approach towards illegal cattle smuggling.

He added that the operation was carried out under directives from the state government and the Director General of Police to curb the growing menace.

As part of the crackdown, authorities detained several suspects, including six individuals in Bhadrak district and four each in Balasore and Mayurbhanj districts. Further investigations are underway to identify additional links and dismantle the wider network.

The intensified action comes amid a sharp rise in such cases in recent years. Official data indicates that 473 cases of illegal cattle transportation were registered in 2023, which increased to 533 in 2024 and surged to 872 in 2025, reflecting the growing scale of the issue and prompting stricter enforcement measures.

NHRC seeks report on whistleblowers' harassment

NEW DELHI

The National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) has issued notices to the Delhi Police, the Union Health Ministry, and the Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI), seeking an Action Taken Report within two weeks over allegations of harassment of whistleblowers linked to a recruitment inquiry.

Taking cognisance of the complaint under the Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993, a Bench headed by NHRC member Priyank Kanoongo observed that the allegations prima facie suggest violations of human rights and fundamental freedoms. These include the right to freedom of speech and expression, as well as the right to dignity and privacy.

According to the complaint, the whistleblowers had raised concerns about alleged irregularities and corruption in the recruitment process within FSSAI. It was claimed that certain individuals had secured jobs using fraudulent documents. The complainants maintained that they had shared findings of an internal committee report in good faith, without adding any personal allegations.

However, they alleged that instead of addressing the concerns, authorities initiated disproportionate action against them, including the registration of a First Information Report at I.P. Estate Police Station in Central Delhi. The complainants argued that such action violated their fundamental rights under Articles 19(1)(a) and 21 of the Constitution, which guarantee freedom of expression and protection of life and personal liberty.

They further claimed that defamatory content targeting them was circulated on social media platforms, allegedly aimed at damaging their reputation. Additionally, concerns were raised about the possible unauthorised access or leakage of confidential information from official sources.

Observing the seriousness of the allegations, the NHRC directed the concerned authorities to conduct a detailed inquiry into the matter.

Tarun Chugh attacks HP govt, predicts BJP return

MANDI

Tarun Chugh, National General Secretary of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), on Tuesday launched a strong attack on the Congress government in Himachal Pradesh, claiming its countdown has begun and predicting a BJP comeback within the next 18 months.

Addressing the party's state executive committee meeting, Chugh asserted that the Congress government would soon be voted out of power due to its alleged failure to deliver on promises made during the Assembly elections. He expressed confidence that the BJP would form the next government in the state with the support of the people.

Chugh took aim at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, criticising his so-called Thaka-Thak model and claiming it had failed to bring any tangible benefits to Himachal Pradesh. He alleged that the commitments made during the election campaign remain unfulfilled, while citizens are facing growing difficulties. According to Chugh, the Congress government's tenure has negatively impacted the state's development trajectory.

Bribery: CBI court sentences ex-railway official to 5-yr RI

JAIPUR

A special CBI court here has sentenced former Western Central Railway employee Jalandhar Yogi, posted in Rajasthan's Sawai Madhopur district, to five years of rigorous imprisonment in a bribery case, officials said on Tuesday. The court also imposed a fine of Rs 25,000 on the accused, holding him guilty of demanding and accepting illegal gratification from a complainant in exchange for clearing a pending bill. According to the Central Bureau of Investigation, the case was registered on June 16, 2020, following allegations that Yogi had demanded a bribe of Rs 11,500 to process and clear the final bill for work completed by the complainant. After verifying the complaint, the agency laid a trap and caught the accused red-handed while accepting Rs 10,000 as a bribe.

TN emerges as key battlefield as DMK seeks to defend stronghold

CHENNAI

As Tamil Nadu heads toward a crucial Assembly election, the state's northern districts are once again in sharp focus, emerging as a decisive region that could significantly influence the overall outcome. The belt, stretching from Cuddalore to Tiruvannamalai, has traditionally played a pivotal role in shaping political fortunes in the state. The DMK enters the contest with a clear structural advantage in the region, having built a strong electoral base over successive elections. The party currently holds a substantial number of seats here, reflecting its deep-rooted presence and sustained voter support across constituencies.

Gehlot slams BJP govt over medical university delay

JAIPUR

Former Rajasthan Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot on Tuesday launched a sharp attack on the BJP-led state government over the sluggish construction of the Marwar Medical University, alleging that the BJP administration has failed to protect the aspirations of the region. In the 16th chapter of his Intezaar Shastra digital series, the veteran Congress leader stated that the Rs 500 crore project has fallen victim to official apathy. This is not just negligence, but a planned step-motherly treatment towards Marwar, Gehlot said, adding that the March 31, 2027, completion deadline now appears to be merely a decoration on paper.

BJP slams Mallikarjun Kharge over 'illiterate' remark, seeks apology

Kharge had said the people of the state were 'educated and clever' and cannot be misled, unlike those who were 'illiterate' in Gujarat and some other places.

NEW DELHI

A political controversy erupted on Tuesday after the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) strongly criticized Congress President Mallikarjun Kharge for his alleged derogatory remarks about Gujaratis and North Indians, as well as his sharp criticism of the BJP and the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS).

Addressing a press conference, senior BJP leader and Member of Parliament Ravi Shankar Prasad launched a strong attack on Kharge, accusing him of attempting to malign the legacy of prominent Gujarati figures and disrespecting patriotic institutions.

He asserted that Kharge's statements were unbecoming of a national party president and called for his immediate resignation on moral and ethical grounds.

The controversy stems from Kharge's remarks in which he allegedly referred to Gujaratis as illiterates and described the BJP and the RSS as poisonous snakes that should be crushed.

These comments triggered a sharp backlash from the BJP, which accused the Congress leadership of engaging in divisive and inflammatory rhetoric.

Prasad questioned the basis of Kharge's remarks by invoking some of India's most respected leaders and personalities from Gujarat, including Mahatma Gandhi, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, Morarji Desai, and Vikram Sarabhai. He asked whether these iconic figures could also be considered illiterate, calling the statement deeply offensive to the people of Gujarat.

Highlighting the state's progress, Prasad pointed out that Gujarat has a literacy rate of approximately 82 percent, among the highest in the country, and has consistently improved over the years.

He demanded that Kharge issue a public apology to the nation for his remarks.

The BJP leader also called upon Congress leaders Sonia Gandhi and Rahul Gandhi to clarify their stance on Kharge's statements, urging them to either support or distance themselves from his comments.

Further intensifying his criticism, Prasad accused Kharge of attempting to divide the country by insulting not only Gujaratis but also residents of northern states such as Uttar Pradesh and Bihar.

He also alleged that Kharge's remarks comparing the BJP and RSS to poisonous snakes could incite communal tensions and polarize communities.

The row has added a fresh layer of political friction, with both parties exchanging sharp rhetoric as the electoral battle gains momentum.

South Africa sees upcoming summit as platform to bolster economic ties

NEW DELHI

South Africa's High Commissioner to India, Professor Anil Sooklal, sees the upcoming India-Africa Forum Summit (IAFS) as an opportunity to strengthen his country's economic ties with India across the pharmaceutical, green energy, IT, and agricultural sectors.The summit aims to see how relations between the African continent and India can be intensified, expanded and maximised, Sooklal said in an interview published in Independent Online (IOL) news portal. He pointed out that India is a pharmaceutical hub of the world, with many of its companies operating extensively across the African continent, including South Africa.I believe the decision by the African Union to have South Africa as the pharmaceutical hub of the African continent provides us with an opportunity to partner with India in this sector, he observed. He said that green energy was another potential area for cooperation, as India, along with France, founded the International Solar Alliance. The country has taken major strides in solar, wind, and hydrogen as part of its green energy campaign, and these were areas on which South Africa and the African continent are also focusing.

They (India) are also on a massive green energy drive. India, with France, founded the International Solar Alliance. High focus on solar energy, wind energy, and green hydrogen, Sooklal said.

We are already partnering with India on the energy front, but I believe we can do much more, especially on green energy, he remarked.

On the industrial front, Sooklal noted that India's Mahindra& Mahindra has an assembly plant in South Africa, but his government is keen that the Indian tractor maker sets up a manufacturing plant in the country.

Maha cabinet approves new dept of electronics, IT and AI

MUMBAI

In a significant move aligned with the 'Viksit India 2047' vision, the Maharashtra Cabinet led by Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Tuesday approved the creation of a dedicated department for Electronics, Information Technology, and Artificial Intelligence.

The Cabinet approved the transformation of the existing Directorate of Information Technology into the Directorate of Electronics, IT, and AI, marking a major administrative upgrade.

Alongside this, a new IT cadre will be established, comprising permanent positions across ministerial departments, the Commissioner's office, and district-level offices. This move is expected to streamline governance and enhance the implementation of digital initiatives across Maharashtra.

The decision comes shortly after Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis highlighted in the state legislature that Maharashtra is emerging as a frontrunner in the field of artificial intelligence startups.He emphasized that the government is actively promoting fintech and AI-based enterprises as part of its broader ambition to transform the state into a trillion-dollar economy. According to him, technology will play a central role in driving this economic transformation, with a strong focus on innovation and entrepreneurship.

New IT-AI dept, Mahavitaran restructuring, geospatial push and World Bank-backed disaster programme among key decisions taken by the Cabinet.

In addition to the IT and AI push, the Cabinet also approved financial restructuring measures for Maharashtra State Electricity Distribution Company Limited (Mahavitaran). Government-backed bonds worth Rs 32,679 crore will be issued in the capital market to manage state-guaranteed loans. The Cabinet further cleared plans for the demerger of the company's agricultural distribution business and its eventual listing on the stock market.

The Cabinet also approved the establishment of the Maharashtra Geotechnology Application Centre (MahaGeo-Tech), which will focus on leveraging geospatial technology to improve governance, research, and innovation. The centre will support educational and professional development programs while enhancing administrative efficiency.

Raut slams Parth Pawar, alleges 'threat tactics' by BJP

MUMBAI

The political atmosphere in Maharashtra has intensified following the filing of nomination papers by Sunetra Pawar for the Baramati bypoll. The decision by Congress to field a candidate against her has sparked a war of words between the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) and its allies, with Shiv Sena(UBT) MP Sanjay Raut firmly backing Congress' right to contest.

Responding to NCP MP Parth Pawar's claim that Congress' decision to contest marks the beginning of its downfall in Maharashtra, Sanjay Raut at the press conference aligned himself with the stance taken by veteran leader Sharad Pawar. I agree with Sharad Pawar. Congress is a national party and has every right to contest the election, he stated. He pointed out the irony in Parth Pawar's criticism, reminding him of recent history. Parth's father, Ajit Pawar, contested the Pimpri-Chinchwad by-election following the death of Laxman Jagtap, and he did so with the help of Congress. If they could seek help then, why shouldn't Congress contest now? he asked.

Sharad Pawar had previously snubbed Parth's comments, stating that expressing views on major political decisions requires a level of maturity.

The controversy extended beyond Baramati to the Rahuri constituency, where former NCP(SP) Minister Prajakt Tanpure withdrew his candidacy. While some claimed Tanpure was persuaded to step down, Raut alleged a darker reality. No one 'persuades' in today's politics; they threaten, Raut charged. He questioned the involvement of BJP leaders Radhakrishna Vikhe Patil and Ravindra Chavan. Are they great revolutionaries or freedom fighters?

'Cong-CPI-M exploiting Sabarimala issue for electoral gains'

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Kerala BJP President Rajeev Chandrasekhar on Tuesday accused the CPI-M and the Congress of exploiting the sensitive Sabarimala temple issue for electoral gains ahead of the Assembly elections scheduled for April 9.

Chandrasekhar alleged that both the Communist Party of India (Marxist) and the Congress have repeatedly used the issue of women's entry into the Sabarimala Temple as an emotional tool to influence voters. He described the controversy as a classic example of how political parties attempted to interfere with long-standing religious traditions, particularly during the 2018 episode when the temple entry issue triggered widespread protests.

He claimed that when the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) and many devotees opposed the move, thousands of protestors were allegedly jailed and faced legal action. According to him, the Congress maintained silence at the time and indirectly supported the CPI-M government's stand on allowing women of all age groups into the temple, following a landmark court ruling.

The BJP leader further alleged that both parties have now changed their stance ahead of elections. He specifically criticized Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, accusing him of attempting to present a different position on the issue during the campaign period.

Chandrasekhar also raised allegations related to a gold theft case linked to Sabarimala, claiming that individuals involved were seen in photographs with Congress leader Sonia Gandhi and Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan. .

He questioned the credibility of both parties in raising the issue now, suggesting that their intentions were politically motivated.

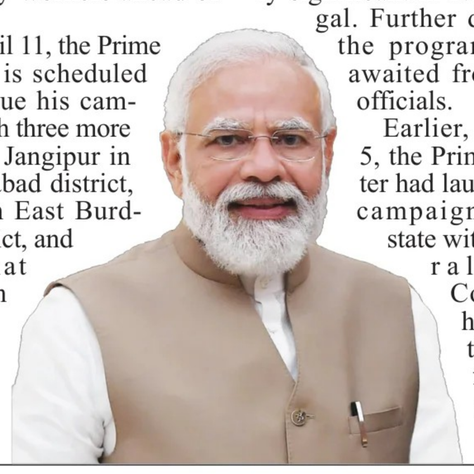
KOLKATA

Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to intensify his election campaign in West Bengal this week by participating in a series of rallies and roadshows ahead of the state's crucial two-phase Assembly elections scheduled later this month.

According to party sources, the Prime Minister is likely to attend seven campaign programmes between April 9 and April 12 across several districts in West Bengal. The campaign push is being seen as a key effort by the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) to strengthen its position in the state.

As per the tentative schedule, on April 9, Modi may address three major rallies in Asansol in West Burdwan district, Suri in Birbhum district, and Haldia in East Midnapore district. These back-to-back events are expected to draw large crowds and energize party workers ahead of polling.

On April 11, the Prime Minister is scheduled to continue his campaign with three more rallies in Jangipur in Murshidabad district, Katwa in East Burdwan district, and Balurghat in South Dinajpur district. Later that day, he is expected to stay overnight in Siliguri, located in the Darjeeling district.



The following day, April 12, Modi is likely to hold a roadshow in Siliguri town, which is considered politically significant in North Bengal. Further details of the programme are awaited from party officials.

Earlier, on April 5, the Prime Minister had launched his campaign in the state with a major rally in Cooch Behar, setting the tone for an aggressive election strategy. According to party insiders, Modi is expected to participate in a total of 14 campaign events, including rallies and roadshows, during the election period.

His final campaign event is likely to take place in the Bhabanipur Assembly constituency in South Kolkata, where a high-profile contest is underway between Leader of Opposition Suvendu Adhikari and Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee of the All India Trinamool Congress.

The West Bengal Assembly elections will be conducted in two phases on April 23 and April 29, covering all 294 constituencies.

The counting of votes and declaration of results are scheduled for May 4.

Pakistan orders early market closures amid crisis

Islamabad

Pakistan has ordered markets and shopping malls to close by 8 pm to save energy amid soaring global fuel prices caused by the Middle East conflict. Bakeries, restaurants, and wedding halls must close by 10 pm, while medical stores remain open. Fuel prices have surged sharply, prompting temporary price cuts and government austerity measures, including a four-day workweek and 20% budget cuts. India grants millions to support Bhutan's growth

THIMPHU

India has strengthened its deep friendship with Bhutan by releasing a fresh grant of Rs 42.3 crore to support the neighboring nation's development. During a high-level meeting held in Thimphu, Indian officials handed over the funds to help build bridges, upgrade schools, and preserve the country's unique spiritual heritage.A significant portion of the money, about Rs 16.86 crore, is dedicated to improving facilities for Bhutan's monks and nuns. This will ensure they have safer and better places to live and study, helping to keep their ancient cultural traditions alive. Another large slice of the funding was used for the recently finished Khuru-Kuenphen bridge, a modern structure designed to make travel easier for locals.The partnership also focuses on making roads safer and faster. Over Rs 5 crore was released to upgrade a key 17-km stretch of the Northern East West Highway. Better roads mean shorter travel times and lower costs for drivers. Faisalabad's history vanishes under concrete and neglect

FAISALABAD

The soul of Faisalabad is slowly disappearing as dozens of its most iconic historic buildings are being razed to the ground.

Heritage experts are sounding the alarm, warning that administrative neglect and a rush for commercial profit are erasing the city's cultural identity. From ancient temples to colonial rest houses, the physical markers of the subcontinent's shared history are being replaced by shopping plazas and parking lots.

Mian Ajaz Bashir, a senior journalist and art advocate, recently highlighted several heartbreaking losses. Among them is the 1906 Arya Samaj temple in Jhang Bazaar, once a vital spiritual hub, which was demolished for a commercial building. Similarly, a British-era rest house built for weary travelers has been carved into tiny shops, while a historic municipal building now serves as nothing more than a place to park cars.

The destruction even touches the legacy of Pakistan's founders. A residence that famously hosted Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah in 1946 has been replaced by a fast-food outlet and a bank. Even libraries and banks from the early 1900s have reportedly been taken over using forged papers and turned into modern developments.

Advocates argue that the government is failing to enforce the Punjab Special Premises Act of 1982, which was designed to protect these very sites. Bashir has urged authorities to immediately review property records and halt illegal encroachments. Without urgent action, the tension between urban growth and history will leave Faisalabad a city without a past, stripping future generations of their heritage.

PAKISTAN GRANTS 2,800 VISAS FOR BAISAKHI PILGRIMS

Lahore Pakistan has issued over 2,800 visas to Indian pilgrims for the upcoming Baisakhi celebrations. Pilgrims will visit important Sikh sites, including Gurdwara Panja Sahib, Gurdwara Nankana Sahib, and Gurdwara Kartarpur Sahib. Saad Ahmad Warraich, Pakistan's Charge d'Affaires to India, extended greetings and wished pilgrims a fulfilling spiritual experience. He said the visit shows Pakistan's commitment to promoting cultural and religious harmony and its role in preserving sacred sites with respect and care. The pilgrimage is part of the Bilateral Protocol on Visits to Religious Shrines, 1974, which allows structured cross-border visits. Baisakhi marks the Sikh harvest festival and the formation of the Khalsa in 1699. Authorities on both sides have coordinated travel, accommodation, and site access to ensure safety and smooth arrangements. The initiative is widely welcomed, offering spiritual growth and stronger cultural ties between the communities.

Nepal foreign minister to attend Indian Ocean meet

KATHMANDU

Shishir Khanal will debut at the Indian Ocean Conference in Mauritius, engaging global leaders on maritime security, climate, and regional cooperation.

Nepal's Foreign Minister, Shishir Khanal, is preparing for a high-profile diplomatic debut at the ninth Indian Ocean Conference in Mauritius this week.

The three-day event will gather global leaders to discuss the future of one of the world's most important maritime regions. This trip marks the first official foreign visit by a Cabinet minister since Prime Minister Balendra Shah's government took office last month.

The conference is a major international platform co-organized by India and Mauritius. While Nepal is a landlocked Himalayan nation, its participation highlights how deeply connected every country is to global trade and security. Foreign Ministry spokesperson Lok Bahadur Poudel Chettri confirmed that preparations are underway for the Minister's address. Khanal is expected to meet with several counterparts from across Asia and Africa to strengthen bilateral ties and discuss regional cooperation.

This year's theme, "Collective Stewardship for Indian Ocean Governance," focuses on protecting the environment and ensuring maritime security. Experts, scholars, and government heads will tackle tough challenges like climate change, natural disasters, and shifting geopolitical power. Since its start in 2016, the forum has become a vital space for countries like India, Australia, and Singapore to collaborate on keeping trade routes safe and sustainable.

For Nepal, the summit offers a chance to engage with major global powers on economic development and shared interests. As the Indian Ocean region grows more strategically significant, these talks aim to foster a spirit of partnership that benefits everyone, from the high mountains to the deep sea.

B'desh foreign minister's landmark India visit to reset bilateral ties

DHAKA

Bangladesh's Foreign Minister, Khalilur Rahman, is traveling to New Delhi for a "goodwill visit" aimed at repairing and elevating the relationship between the two neighbors.

This marks the first official trip to India by a Bangladeshi minister since the new government took office in February. Officials in Dhaka believe this meeting will lay a vital foundation for more productive and sustainable cooperation in the coming years.

The visit comes at a sensitive time. Ties had become strained over the last 18 months during an interim period marked by anti-India rhetoric and concerns over the safety of minorities. Now, both nations seem eager to move forward with a "positive and constructive" approach. Minister Rahman is scheduled to meet with India's Foreign Minister and National Security Advisor to discuss stability based on mutual respect and trust.

A major priority for Dhaka is the full restoration of Indian visa services, which have been limited since July 2024 due to security concerns. Many Bangladeshis rely on these visas for medical tourism, and the current restrictions have hit families and businesses hard. Other key topics on the table include energy cooperation, better border management, and long-standing debates over sharing river water.

Before heading to a global conference in Mauritius later this week, the Minister's stop in New Delhi signals a fresh start. Recent high-level meetings between diplomats and military leaders suggest that both sides are ready to focus on shared interests like regional peace and trade.

Japan deepens ties with India

The Governor of Japan's Tottori Prefecture, Shinji Hirai, has pledged to build a powerful new partnership with India centered on "people-to-people" connections. Known for its stunning sand dunes and rich farming, Tottori is now turning its sights toward Odisha State to create a lasting bond. Governor Hirai, a former high-ranking official, believes that municipal diplomacy—cities talking directly to cities—is the best way to ensure global peace and shared prosperity.The collaboration is already moving fast, going well beyond simple handshakes.

Empty rallies signal end of Khalistan movement?

BRAMPTON

The influence of the banned terror group Sikhs for Justice (SFJ) appears to be collapsing as its recent "referendum" events in Canada failed to attract crowds. Once claiming massive support, the group's latest call for anti-India protests in Brampton and Surrey turned out to be a "damp squib."

While authorities prepared for thousands, witnesses reported as few as twenty people actually showed up, signaling a massive shift in public sentiment.

Intelligence officials say the dwindling numbers prove that the local community is tired of vandalism and see the movement as a "money-making racket" rather than a genuine cause. People are increasingly unwilling to support a group linked to gangsters and criminals. Furthermore, the youth in Punjab have been actively educated about the dangers of the movement, cutting off the group's core base of support.

A major turning point has been the new cooperation between Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Canadian leader Mark Carney. Canada recently passed Bill C-9, a strict law against hate crimes that bans intimidating demonstrations near places of worship. This law, combined with local "safety zones" that keep protesters 100 meters away from temples, has left SFJ leaders frustrated and powerless on the streets.

Experts believe this loss of physical support will push the group to increase its digital attacks and hate videos online. However, with India and Canada now working together to nip these activities in the bud, the era of street intimidation seems to be over. The "lost cause" of Khalistan is finally hitting a dead end.

WHO suspends Gaza evacuations following tragic death

GENEVA

The World Health Organization (WHO) has officially halted all medical evacuations from Gaza after a contract worker was killed in a violent "security incident." Director-General Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus announced the suspension, noting that while two other staff members at the scene were unharmed, the risks have become too great. This move effectively freezes the critical lifeline used to transport severely ill and injured patients to Egypt for life-saving surgery.The suspension comes at a devastating time for Gaza's healthcare system, which is already on the brink of total collapse. With specialized care unavailable locally, these transfers through the Rafah crossing were the only hope for many.

MEASLES CRISIS

Lethal measles outbreak claims over 100 lives

DHAKA

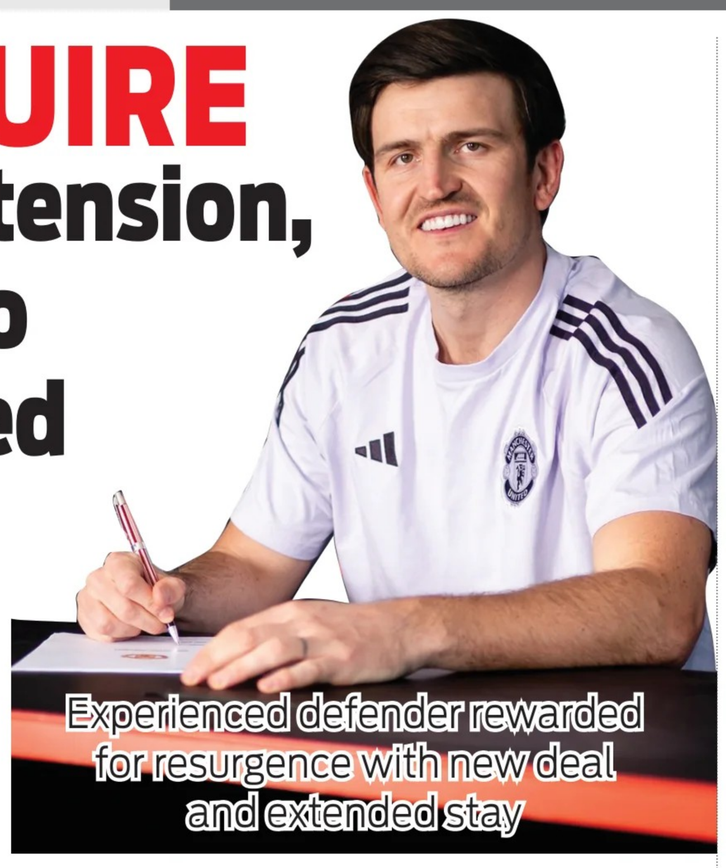
A devastating measles outbreak is sweeping through Bangladesh, claiming at least 118 lives since mid-March. The country's health department confirmed that the vast majority of these victims are children.

Over 2,000 suspected patients are fighting for their lives in hospitals across the nation. The situation has become so critical that medical experts are calling for immediate and massive reform to the country's struggling healthcare system.

Health officials have traced the root of this crisis back to a series of administrative failures over the past two years. According to former health director Benazir Ahmed, the previous interim government's decision to cancel key funding programs led to a severe vaccine shortage. This was made worse by several worker strikes in 2025 and the cancellation of a major immunization campaign that was supposed to happen last year. Because of these delays, some regions were forced to ration life-saving shots starting in January.

At the Rajshahi Medical College Hospital alone, 42 deaths have been reported, highlighting how quickly the virus is spreading in crowded areas. Public health experts warn that measles is incredibly contagious, with one infected person capable of passing the disease to nearly 18 others.While the government has now launched an emergency vaccination drive, specialists say these "band-aid" solutions are not enough. They argue that without steady funding and a reliable supply chain, more children will remain at risk. As the nation marks World Health Day, the focus remains on stopping the spread and protecting the next generation.

HARRY MAGUIRE signs contract extension, commits future to Manchester United



MANCHESTER

Harry Maguire has signed a one-year contract extension with Manchester United, with an option to prolong his stay by a further 12 months, securing his future at Old Trafford beyond the current season.

The 33-year-old defender, whose previous deal was set to expire at the end of the campaign, has earned the extension following a strong resurgence after a challenging period at the club. Once considered surplus to requirements, Maguire has re-established himself as a key figure in the squad through consistent performances and leadership.

Manchester United's director of football, Jason Wilcox, praised Maguire's professionalism and influence within the team. "Harry represents the mentality and resilience required to perform at this club. He brings invaluable experience and leadership to a young and ambitious squad," Wilcox said.

Maguire joined United in 2019 from Leicester City in a deal worth around $97 million, then a world-record fee for a defender. Since then, he has made 266 appearances for the club and played a vital role in their domestic success, including triumphs in the FA Cup and League Cup.

After losing his regular starting position under former manager Erik ten Hag in 2023, Maguire's future at the club appeared uncertain. However, his determination and work ethic have helped him regain form and confidence, earning him renewed trust at both club and international levels.

His improved performances have also led to a recall to the England national football team setup ahead of the upcoming World Cup, underlining his return to prominence.

Expressing his delight, Maguire described playing for Manchester United as "the ultimate honour." He added that representing the club brings immense pride to him and his family and reaffirmed his commitment to contributing to future success.

With this extension, Maguire is set to complete at least eight seasons at Old Trafford, continuing his journey with one of football's most storied clubs while aiming to add more silverware and memorable moments.

Pankaj Advani conquers pool, adds new chapter to illustrious career

BENGALURU

India's cue sports legend Pankaj Advani has once again demonstrated his extraordinary versatility, making a sensational debut in pool by clinching both the 9-ball and 10-ball titles at the National Championships in Ludhiana.

Known for his dominance in billiards and snooker, Advani had largely stayed away from pool throughout his decorated career, which includes over 28 world titles. His unexpected entry into the national pool championships raised eyebrows, but the Bengaluru-based star quickly turned curiosity into admiration with a remarkable performance.

Initially approaching the tournament with no expectations, Advani admitted he was simply exploring a new format of the sport. However, after a slow start, he found his rhythm and elevated his game significantly as the competition progressed.

In the 9-ball final, Advani defeated Nitin Sharma 11-6 with a composed and controlled display. He followed it up with a gripping 11-9 victory over Pushpender Singh in the 10-ball final, showcasing his ability to adapt and excel under pressure. The twin triumphs made him only the second Indian cueist after Alok Kumar to achieve a rare Grand Slam of national titles across cue sports disciplines.

Reflecting on his achievement, Advani described the experience as surreal and "like a fairytale," admitting that even reaching the latter stages would have exceeded his expectations. Winning both events on debut, however, was beyond anything he had imagined.

Despite his success, Advani remains measured about his future in pool. While he acknowledged the format's excitement and global appeal, he indicated that his primary focus would continue to be on billiards and snooker, disciplines where he has built his legacy.

"I just want to enjoy these victories for now," he said, adding that he may consider participating in select international pool events, particularly in the Middle East, where competition is intense.

Up next for Advani is the IBSF World Billiards Championship in Carlow from April 24 to 29, where he will aim to further extend his dominance on the global stage.

With this latest feat, Advani continues to redefine excellence in cue sports, proving his mastery transcends formats.

Tehran seeks venue change citing security concerns amid ongoing regional tensions

Iran awaits FIFA decision on shifting World Cup matches from United States

TEHRAN

Iran is awaiting a response from FIFA regarding its request to relocate World Cup matches from the United States to Mexico, with participation in the tournament hinging on the outcome.

The Iranian football federation has formally sought a venue change for its group-stage fixtures, citing security concerns linked to ongoing geopolitical tensions in the region. The request comes amid Iran's broader policy restricting travel by national teams to countries it considers hostile.

Iran's Minister of Sport, Ahmad Donyamali, said the government would take a final call on participation only after FIFA responds. "If our request is accepted, Iran's presence in the World Cup will be certain. However, we are still awaiting an official reply," he said in an interview.

Iran are currently scheduled to play all their Group G matches on American soil, including fixtures in Los Angeles and Seattle. Their opponents include New Zealand, Belgium, and Egypt.

Despite the concerns raised by Tehran, Gianni Infantino recently indicated that Iran's matches would proceed as originally scheduled. However, Iranian authorities remain unconvinced, stressing the need for firm security assurances before committing to travel.

The situation has been further complicated by remarks from Donald Trump, who said Iran's team would be welcome in the United States but raised questions about safety in the current climate. He later clarified that any potential threats would not originate from the US.

Donyamali reiterated that ensuring player safety is paramount and noted that providing guarantees in the limited time before the tournament could prove challenging. "According to FIFA regulations, security must be ensured by the host nation, but under present circumstances, this remains uncertain," he said.

The FIFA World Cup 2026 is scheduled to be jointly hosted by the United States, Mexico, and Canada from June 11 to July 19.

With time running out, Iran's participation remains in doubt, pending FIFA's decision on the proposed venue switch.

Elderly fan dies after cardiac arrest during Bundesliga match in Frankfurt

FRANKFURT

A long-time supporter of Eintracht Frankfurt has died after suffering a cardiac arrest during a Bundesliga match against , the club confirmed on Tuesday.

The 87-year-old fan, who has not been publicly identified, fell ill during the second half of Sunday's 2-2 draw in Frankfurt. Medical personnel rushed to his aid in the stands, and the stadium atmosphere turned somber as supporters watched in silence while emergency services worked to revive him.

According to the club, the fan was successfully resuscitated at the stadium before being transported to hospital. However, despite continued medical efforts, his condition could not be stabilised, and he passed away hours later.

In an official statement, Eintracht Frankfurt expressed deep condolences, noting that the supporter had been a loyal member of the club for many years and held a season ticket. "Our thoughts and sympathy are with his family and friends," the statement read, while also thanking emergency responders and spectators for their sensitivity during the incident. Players from both sides, including Frankfurt and Cologne, continued the match under subdued conditions following the medical emergency. The incident cast a shadow over the fixture, with fans refraining from chants as the seriousness of the situation became clear.

Such occurrences, though rare, have prompted increasing focus on medical preparedness at sporting venues. Quick response times and the availability of trained personnel and equipment are considered critical in handling emergencies of this nature.

The tragedy follows a similar incident earlier this season during a German Cup match involving RB Leipzig and Energie Cottbus, where a fan died after falling ill while entering the stadium. On that occasion too, the atmosphere was muted as supporters from both teams showed respect.

Sunday's events in Frankfurt served as a stark reminder that moments of joy in sport can be overshadowed by human tragedy, uniting players and fans alike in grief and solidarity.

Juventus beat Genoa to tighten grip on Serie A top-four race

Early goals and strong defense help Juventus boost Champions League hopes

MILAN

Juventus strengthened their push for a top-four finish in Serie A with a commanding 2-0 victory over Genoa, moving to within a point of the Champions League qualification spots.

Capitalising on Como's goalless draw against Udinese earlier in the day, Juventus made a strong start in Turin. Defender Gleison Bremer opened the scoring in just the fourth minute with a deflected header, setting the tone for the hosts.

Midfielder Weston McKennie doubled the lead in the 17th minute, finishing off a well-worked move involving Francisco Conceicao. The early goals allowed Juventus to take control, though Genoa showed resilience as the match progressed.

Goalkeeper Michele Di Gregorio proved crucial in preserving the lead, producing a stunning double save to deny Genoa a route back into the contest. He first parried away a penalty from Aaron Martin before reacting sharply to stop a follow-up effort from Vitinha, drawing applause from the home crowd.

The win marks a fifth consecutive unbeaten match for Juventus under coach Luciano Spalletti, who was brought in with the primary aim of restoring the club to Europe's elite competition. With momentum building, Juventus now sit just one point behind the top four.

The result also widened the gap to AS Roma, who remain sixth after a heavy defeat to league leaders Inter Milan. Juventus are also four points clear of Atalanta, setting up a crucial upcoming clash between the two sides.

Despite the defeat, Genoa, managed by Daniele De Rossi, remain relatively safe from relegation, sitting six points above the drop zone.

With the Serie A season entering its decisive phase, Juventus appear to be peaking at the right time, combining defensive solidity with clinical finishing as they chase a return to the Champions League.

Alcaraz eager for clay return, targets strong build-up to French Open

MONACO

World number one Carlos Alcaraz has expressed his excitement at returning to clay courts, declaring he is ready to "get his socks dirty again" as he begins preparations for his French Open title defence.

After a dominant 2025 season on clay, Alcaraz is looking to rediscover his rhythm on his favourite surface during the European swing. Speaking ahead of his campaign in Monte Carlo Masters, the Spaniard said the clay season remains the most special part of the calendar for him.

"This is one of the best times of the year for me. I always miss clay when the season ends," Alcaraz said, reflecting on his return after several months away from the surface since his triumph at Roland Garros last June.

The 22-year-old enjoyed a stellar run last year, clinching multiple clay titles and building momentum that culminated in his French Open victory, where he defeated Jannik Sinner in a memorable final. His performances also included strong showings in Barcelona Open and Italian Open.

Alcaraz plans a packed schedule leading up to Roland Garros, aiming to compete in Monte Carlo, Barcelona, Madrid, and Rome. Despite acknowledging the physical and mental demands of such a run, he remains committed to maintaining peak fitness.

"It's a demanding stretch, but I want to play as much as possible and take care of my body," he said, noting that Barcelona holds particular significance for him despite the tight schedule.

The Spaniard also highlighted the importance of last year's Monte Carlo tournament in shaping his approach on clay. "That week helped me understand my game better, and from there I kept improving," he added. Alcaraz will begin his Monte Carlo campaign in the second round, where he is set to face either Stan Wawrinka or Sebastian Baez.

With confidence high and form on his side, Alcaraz now turns his focus to building momentum once again on clay as he eyes another successful run in Paris.

Michigan clinches second NCAA title, edges UConn in gritty final

INDIANAPOLIS

Michigan Wolverines men's basketball powered through a bruising contest to defeat UConn Huskies men's basketball 69-63 and capture their second NCAA men's basketball national championship, ending a decades-long wait with a performance built on resilience rather than flair.

In a game far removed from their high-scoring tournament run, Michigan relied on defensive grit and composure under pressure to secure the title—the program's first since 1989. The victory also marked a significant milestone for the Big Ten, which had not produced a men's champion since 2000.

Leading the charge was Elliot Cadeau, who was named Final Four's Most Outstanding Player after scoring 19 points. Cadeau's timely contributions included Michigan's first three-pointer deep into the second half, setting the tone in a contest where scoring proved difficult.

Freshman Trey McKenney delivered a decisive blow late in the game, sinking a crucial three-pointer with under two minutes remaining to extend Michigan's lead. He later sealed the win from the free-throw line as the Wolverines converted an impressive 25 of 28 attempts.

UConn, led by Alex Karaban with 17 points, refused to back down. A late three-pointer from Solo Ball brought the Huskies within striking distance, but missed opportunities in the closing seconds dashed their hopes of a comeback. Michigan's triumph came despite struggles from beyond the arc, finishing just 2-of-15 on three-point attempts. Star forward Yaxel Lendeborg, hampered by injury, managed 13 points but was far from his dominant best.

Head coach Dusty May credited the team's defensive unity, noting that the Wolverines held UConn to just over 30 percent shooting—the fourth straight opponent they restricted to a season-low efficiency.

Markets tense amid Hormuz deal uncertainty

LONDON

Global markets remained cautious as uncertainty over a possible deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz kept investors on edge. Rising tensions between the United States and Iran, along with a looming deadline set by President Donald Trump, have increased fears of further conflict. Stocks showed little movement, while the dollar stayed firm. Oil prices surged sharply, with Brent crude rising significantly since the conflict began. Investors are waiting for clarity, as any breakthrough or escalation could impact global trade and energy supplies. For now, markets remain watchful, reflecting growing concern over the ongoing geopolitical situation.

Samsung Q1 profit soars on AI chip demand

SEOUL

Samsung Electronics reported record first-quarter earnings, with operating profit soaring 755% to 57.2 trillion won ($38 billion) and revenue reaching 133 trillion won ($88.7 billion). Analysts credited strong demand for AI-related memory chips and rising DRAM prices for the exceptional performance. Oil prices skyrocket as global tensions rise

Oil prices surge over 3% as US-Iran tensions and a vital waterway standoff spark worldwide energy fears

NEW DELHI

Gas station prices may soon pinch pockets everywhere as global crude oil costs jumped over 3%. This sudden spike follows a tense standoff between the United States and Iran, leaving the world's energy markets on edge.

The surge is tied to a strict deadline set by U.S. President Donald Trump. In aggressive social media posts, the President demanded that Iran reopen the Strait of Hormuz, a narrow but vital water passage. This small strip of sea is responsible for moving about twenty percent of the entire world's oil supply. The President warned of severe military consequences if the deadline passed without a deal, causing immediate panic among global oil traders.

Market data shows that Brent crude hit a high of $111.63, while U.S. West Texas Intermediate futures climbed past $116.87. Since this conflict began in late February, oil prices have already soared nearly 90 percent for the year. While prices fluctuate, they are currently averaging around the $100 mark, a heavy burden for the global economy.

Iran has reportedly rejected the proposed ceasefire, choosing to stand its ground against U.S. pressure. This friction is also shaking up the stock markets. In India, the Sensex and Nifty both dropped by 1 percent as investors grew nervous. While some markets in the U.S. remained slightly positive, Asian markets showed mixed results. For now, the world watches the clock, hoping for a peaceful resolution before energy costs climb even higher for everyday families.

INDIA ADVANCES NUCLEAR POWER WITH MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH

NEW DELHI

India's journey toward energy independence reached a historic milestone this week as the nation's first Prototype Fast Breeder Reactor (PFBR) officially started its power-generating process. Located in Kalpakkam, this advanced 500-megawatt reactor achieved "criticality", meaning it has successfully begun a controlled nuclear chain reaction to produce consistent, low-carbon electricity. Prime Minister Narendra Modi hailed the achievement as a "defining step" for the country.

This specific type of reactor is revolutionary because it is designed to produce more fuel than it actually consumes. By converting common materials into usable energy, the facility showcases India's immense scientific growth. It serves as a vital bridge toward the nation's long-term goal, tapping into its massive thorium reserves to provide clean, reliable power for future generations.Built entirely within India by the Indira Gandhi Centre for Atomic Research and BHAVINI, the project is a shining example of the "Atmanirbhar Bharat" or self-reliant India initiative. Unlike older models, this reactor uses liquid sodium for cooling and features a closed fuel cycle. This high-tech approach significantly reduces nuclear waste while boosting thermal efficiency, making it a much greener option for the environment.Government officials emphasized that this breakthrough ensures long-term energy security.

India's first Prototype Fast Breeder Reactor in Kalpakkam achieved criticality, marking a historic leap in self-reliant, sustainable nuclear energy using advanced indigenous liquid sodium technology.

By recycling nuclear materials, India can generate steady "base-load" power that doesn't rely on weather conditions. As the nation celebrates this engineering triumph.

Aluminium production cuts spark global supply concerns

India's aluminium industry is feeling the heat of the growing crisis in West Asia, leading to a massive drop in production. According to the Aluminium Extrusion Manufacturers Association of India (ALEMAI), factories across the country have been forced to slash their output by nearly half. This sudden slowdown is a direct result of broken supply chains and rising tensions in a region critical to global trade.Before the conflict escalated, the industry was a powerhouse, producing around 1.3 million tonnes of aluminium extrusions every year.

Demand for shop space high despite shortage

NEW DELHI

India's shopping scene is buzzing with energy, even though new malls are becoming harder to find. Fresh reports reveals that retail leasing across the country's top eight cities stayed steady at 1.95 million square feet during the first quarter of 2026.

While these numbers are slightly lower than last year, experts say the appetite for space remains incredibly strong.

The main challenge right now isn't a lack of interest from brands, but a lack of available buildings. Because few new malls opened recently, shops are fighting over the best spots. Interestingly, malls captured nearly half of all leasing activity, showing that brands still value these large hubs. Meanwhile, bustling main streets continue to be the top choice for retailers, making up 53 percent of the market due to their high visibility.

Delhi led the charge, claiming 30 percent of the total leasing space, followed closely by Hyderabad and Mumbai. When it comes to what people are buying, fashion and food were the biggest winners, accounting for nearly half of all new deals. Entertainment centers are also growing fast as malls focus on fun experiences for families.Looking ahead, the market is expected to get a boost as premium developments finally open their doors later this year. For now, the message is clear: retailers are eager to grow, but they are waiting for more high-quality space to become available. India's retail world is currently a high-demand environment where quality remains the ultimate prize.

Air India hiked fuel surcharges as jet fuel prices doubled, increasing costs for domestic travelers and long-haul flights.

Air India raises fares as fuel costs surge

NEW DELHI

Travelers will soon face higher ticket prices as Air India announced a mandatory fuel surcharge hike for both domestic and international flights.

This decision comes as the aviation industry grapples with a massive global spike in jet fuel costs, which have nearly doubled in just one month.On domestic routes, the airline is moving away from a flat fee to a distance-based system. Passengers flying short distances under 500 kilometers will pay an extra Rs 299, while those traveling over 2,000 kilometers will see a surcharge of Rs 899. Although the government has capped domestic fuel price increases at 25 percent to protect consumers, international travel remains much more expensive because no such price controls exist for overseas flights.The cost of jet fuel reached a staggering $195.19 per barrel in late March, a sharp rise from under $100 in February. Because of this, international surcharges will vary greatly depending on the destination. Flights to nearby SAARC countries will increase by roughly $24, while long-haul trips to North America or Australia will see a steep hike of $280.Air India stated that even with these new fees, they are still absorbing a large portion of the rising costs to keep seats filled. Fortunately for early birds, tickets already purchased will remain at their original price unless the traveler makes changes to their itinerary. Following similar moves by competitors like IndiGo, this shift marks a challenging new chapter for global travel and holiday budgets.

AIR INDIA CEO STEPS DOWN AFTER TRANSFORMATION

NEW DELHI: Air India has confirmed that its Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director, Campbell Wilson, will step down from his role. The airline announced that a committee has been formed to find his successor in the coming months. Wilson had informed Chairman N. Chandrasekaran about his plan to resign back in 2024 and has since focused on ensuring a smooth transition. He will continue in his position until a new CEO takes charge. During his tenure, Wilson led major changes after privatisation. These include merging four airlines, upgrading systems, improving services, and adding over 100 aircraft to the fleet. Chandrasekaran praised Wilson's leadership, noting his efforts in guiding the airline through challenges like post-Covid disruptions and global uncertainties while helping shape a stronger, modern Air India.

RBI likely to hold rates amid global war

NEW DELHI

The Reserve Bank of India is expected to keep interest rates steady this week as it balances a weakening currency against the pressure of global conflict. With the Iran war clouding the economic outlook, all thirty economists surveyed believe the central bank will maintain the repo rate at 5.25%. This decision comes at a critical time for India, as the nation grapples with rising energy costs and a volatile rupee.Governor Sanjay Malhotra faces a difficult dilemma. The rupee has dropped significantly over the past year, becoming Asia's worst-performing currency. While raising rates could help support the rupee, doing so might hurt India's economic growth. Currently, the RBI is using other aggressive measures to stop currency speculation, such as capping bank positions. There is also talk of opening a special "dollar window" for oil companies to ease the pressure on the market.The war has also forced experts to rethink India's growth numbers. Because the country relies heavily on the Middle East for crude oil and cooking gas, the closure of shipping routes is a major blow. Some analysts have already lowered their growth forecasts to below 6.5 percent,fearing that expensive.

Rupee dips 10 paise amid dollar pressure

Mumbai: The Indian rupee fell by 10 paise, closing at 93.00 against the US dollar, reflecting ongoing market caution. Investors are closely watching geopolitical developments, including a deadline set by US President Donald Trump regarding the Strait of Hormuz, as well as the Reserve Bank of India's upcoming monetary policy review. Forex traders noted that the rupee is under pressure due to steady foreign capital outflows, a strong US dollar, and rising crude oil prices. The combination of these factors has added to volatility in the currency market.

CONVENIENCE OVER COST

Speed beats discounts, shoppers chase convenience

NEW DELHI

The way we shop is changing forever. While low prices used to be the main goal for Indian shoppers, a new report shows that speed and ease are now taking the lead.

According to Grant Thornton Bharat, over 70% of people say they will keep using quick commerce apps even if those tempting discounts disappear.For many, the "need it now" factor outweighs the cost. About 45 percent of shoppers use these fast delivery services for urgent needs, while others rely on them for daily items like milk or late-night snacks. This shift has pushed traditional neighborhood kirana stores into a tough spot. About half of consumers say they visit their local shops less often than they did last year.However, the local kirana is not disappearing. These small shops remain the heart of many communities, built on years of trust. Interestingly, the report found that many shopkeepers are ready to join the digital age. Around 40 percent of retailers want to partner with quick delivery platforms, though some are still figuring out how the technology works.While almost every small shop now accepts UPI or QR code payments, moving to advanced digital tools for tracking stock remains a challenge due to high costs. The future of Indian retail seems to be a mix of both worlds. Whether it is a quick tap on a phone or a friendly chat at the corner store, convenience is now the king of the market.

NO MORE CASH AT HIGHWAY TOLL PLAZAS

NEW DELHI

The era of paying with paper notes at national highway toll plazas will officially come to an end.

The Ministry of Road Transport and Highways has announced that cash payments will be completely discontinued to ensure faster travel.

This bold move is designed to eliminate long queues and make highway journeys smoother for millions of commuters across the country. According to a new government notification, every vehicle must now use a valid FASTag to pass through toll gates. However, the government has provided a small safety net for those caught without one.

If a traveler enters a toll lane without a working FASTag, they will still be allowed to pay using a UPI QR code.

The catch is that this convenience comes with a heavy price tag.

UPI payments at the booth will cost 1.25 times the standard toll fee, acting as a penalty for not having the required electronic tag.

Senior officials from the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) explained that the goal is to reach 100 percent electronic collection.

IPL 2026

Lalit Modi criticises BCCI over IPL format, claims ₹2,400 crore loss

Former IPL chief says reduced matches hurting league revenue and franchise valuations

NEW DELHI

Former Lalit Modi has strongly criticised the Board of Control for Cricket in India, claiming the Indian Premier League is incurring an annual loss of around ₹2,400 crore due to deviation from its original format.

Modi argued that the league's current structure, which features 74 matches in the league stage, falls short of the initially envisioned full home-and-away system. According to him, each of the 10 teams was meant to play one another twice, resulting in a 90-match league phase, followed by knockout fixtures.

"The home-and-away format is where the real value lies. That is what was originally sold," Modi said, expressing concern that the existing model deprives franchises of crucial revenue opportunities. He added that reducing the number of matches effectively cuts into both central revenue and team earnings.

Highlighting the financial implications, Modi explained that each IPL match generates significant media rights income, with revenue shared equally between the BCCI and franchises. By not conducting the additional matches, he claimed, the league is missing out on thousands of crores annually.

"If there were close to 90-plus matches under a full home-and-away structure, media rights alone would bring in an extra ₹2,400 crore," he said. "Out of this, nearly ₹1,200 crore would go to the teams, substantially boosting their valuations."

Modi also questioned whether all stakeholders had agreed to the current format, suggesting that the deviation may not align with initial contractual expectations. He emphasised that franchise owners invest heavily based on the promise of a certain number of matches and corresponding returns.

Despite his criticism, Modi acknowledged the IPL's remarkable growth, especially following high-value franchise deals involving teams like Royal Challengers Bengaluru and Rajasthan Royals. However, he maintained that sustaining and enhancing the league's value requires adherence to its foundational structure.

Mitchell Starc setback hits Delhi Capitals, pacer likely out longer

Injury concerns delay Australian pacer's return, testing Delhi Capitals' bowling depth

NEW DELHI

Delhi Capitals have been dealt a significant setback in the Indian Premier League 2026, with star pacer Mitchell Starc set to remain unavailable for an extended period due to injury, according to reports.

Starc, who is recovering from shoulder and elbow issues, is expected to miss at least three more matches and may only join the squad after April 20. His absence comes despite Delhi Capitals making a strong start to their campaign under new captain Axar Patel, securing wins in their opening two fixtures.

The team is scheduled to face Gujarat Titans, Chennai Super Kings, and Royal Challengers Bengaluru in the coming days, matches that will test their bowling resources in Starc's continued absence.

In his place, the pace attack has been led by Mukesh Kumar and T Natarajan, supported by the spin duo of Axar Patel and Kuldeep Yadav. While the unit has performed competently so far, Starc's experience and wicket-taking ability at crucial moments remain a significant miss.

The Australian quick, who picked up 14 wickets in the previous season, had earlier addressed criticism regarding his delayed arrival, clarifying that his absence was purely due to injury management rather than lack of commitment. He emphasised that the extent of his injuries became clear only after the Australian summer. Responding to speculation, Starc stated that some opinions in the media were "misinformed" and insisted that managing his fitness was essential for long-term performance. He also expressed regret over missing the initial phase of the tournament, acknowledging the disruption caused to the team and its supporters.

Delhi Capitals had invested heavily in Starc during the 2025 auction, underlining his importance to their plans.

South African star says batting unit must shoulder responsibility after slow start

Klaasen defends SRH bowlers, urges batters to step up in IPL

HYDERABAD

Sunrisers Hyderabad wicketkeeper-batter Heinrich Klaasen has pushed back against criticism of the team's bowling unit, instead pointing to the batters' underperformance as a key reason behind their inconsistent start in the Indian Premier League 2026.

Despite being regarded as one of the most explosive batting line-ups in the tournament, SRH have managed just one win in their first three matches. With analysts highlighting the inexperience in the bowling department—especially in the absence of captain Pat Cummins—Klaasen offered a different perspective on the team's struggles.

According to Klaasen, the batting unit has failed to put up competitive totals, leaving the bowlers with insufficient runs to defend. "We have probably been 40 runs short across the last three games," he said, underlining the gap between expectation and execution.

The absence of Cummins, coupled with an injury to Brydon Carse, has forced SRH to rely on relatively inexperienced bowlers. However, Klaasen believes it is unfair to label the bowling attack as weak, insisting that the responsibility lies equally—if not more—with the batters.

"It is easy to say the bowlers are under pressure, but we haven't done our job with the bat," he explained. "Our role is to consistently post totals in the range of 220 to 230. That's how the team has been structured."

Klaasen pointed out that in matches where SRH reached competitive scores, such as against Kolkata Knight Riders, the bowling unit was better positioned to defend the target. In contrast, sub-par totals in other games exposed the attack and increased pressure on less experienced players. He also emphasised that the pitches in their recent matches have been conducive to batting, making the team's inability to capitalise even more significant.

Parag's tactical maturity earns praise ahead of Royals' MI clash

GUWAHATI

Rajasthan Royals' impressive start to the Indian Premier League 2026 has drawn praise for skipper Riyan Parag, with performance coach Siddhartha Lahiri highlighting the youngster's sharp cricketing mind ahead of their clash against Mumbai Indians.

The Royals have begun their campaign on a high, outclassing Chennai Super Kings in their opening match in Guwahati before edging past Gujarat Titans in a closely fought away encounter. The victories mark a promising start for Parag in his first season as the franchise's full-time captain.

Lahiri credited Parag's composure and decision-making abilities as key factors behind the team's early success. "Even though he is young, his cricketing mind is far more mature. He remains calm under pressure, which is crucial in this format," Lahiri said on Monday.

According to Lahiri, Parag's tactical awareness was evident in the tense final over against Gujarat Titans, where pacer Tushar Deshpande successfully defended 10 runs. The decision to hand him the ball, along with subtle field adjustments, showcased the captain's instinctive understanding of match situations.

"Giving the ball to Tushar was a big call. Before the first delivery, third man was pushed back. The way Rashid Khan played that shot, it could have easily gone for a boundary if the fielder was inside," Lahiri explained, underlining Parag's attention to detail.

Despite the encouraging results, the Royals' camp is wary of getting carried away. Lahiri emphasised the importance of consistency and sticking to established processes in a long tournament like the IPL.

"It's still early days. We have played just two matches, and while we have done well, the challenge is to stay grounded. The focus should remain on executing plans and maintaining balance throughout the season," he added.

With confidence high but caution intact, Rajasthan Royals will look to continue their momentum when they face Mumbai Indians, aiming to build on a strong foundation laid under their young leader.

MUMBAI INDIANS play down Sooryavanshi threat ahead of ROYALS CLASH

GUWAHATI

As anticipation builds for the Indian Premier League 2026 clash between Mumbai Indians and Rajasthan Royals, Mumbai's coaching staff has dismissed the notion that young sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi poses an unfamiliar challenge.

One of the most talked-about match-ups of the contest is expected to be Sooryavanshi's face-off against premier pacer Jasprit Bumrah. The teenage batter has garnered widespread attention for his explosive performances over the past year, emerging as a key figure in the Royals' batting line-up.

However, Mumbai Indians bowling coach Paras Mhambrey believes the youngster is no longer an unknown quantity. "He is not new. This is his second year, so we understand his game," Mhambrey said, downplaying any element of surprise.

While acknowledging Sooryavanshi's talent and impact, Mhambrey stressed that Mumbai's preparation remains consistent regardless of the opponent. "He is a good player, and his performances have been praiseworthy. But our approach does not change for any individual," he added.

The Royals, led by Riyan Parag, have enjoyed a strong start to the season, registering convincing wins over Chennai Super Kings and Gujarat Titans. Their momentum, combined with a balanced squad, makes them formidable opponents heading into the Guwahati fixture.

Mumbai Indians also addressed the perceived "mystery" surrounding leg-spinner Ravi Bishnoi, another in-form player for the Royals. Mhambrey dismissed such characterisations, stating that Bishnoi's skills are well known after several seasons in top-level cricket.

"I don't see him as a mystery anymore. Players evolve, and teams study them closely. There is nothing drastically different," he explained, highlighting the analytical preparation modern teams undertake.

Rain plays spoilsport again as Eden Gardens clash ends in stalemate

KOLKATA

For the second consecutive season, rain had the final word at Eden Gardens as the Kolkata Knight Riders versus Punjab Kings clash in Indian Premier League 2026 was abandoned on Monday, leaving both teams to settle for a point each.

The evening had promised much, with Shah Rukh Khan in attendance and fans turning up in encouraging numbers despite KKR's recent struggles. However, persistent showers ensured that only 3.4 overs of play were possible before the contest was halted.

In a surprising move, KKR opted to bat despite forecasts of rain, a decision that quickly backfired. The home side stumbled to 25 for two, with openers Finn Allen and Cameron Green falling early. Both were dismissed by Punjab Kings pacer Xavier Bartlett, who impressed with his sharp burst, extracting movement and troubling the batters.

KKR, already under pressure after consecutive losses, fielded a reshuffled XI in the absence of key players Varun Chakaravarthy and Sunil Narine. Rovman Powell and Navdeep Saini were brought in as replacements, but the changes did little to stabilise the top order.

Skipper Ajinkya Rahane and young Angkrish Raghuvanshi had just begun rebuilding the innings when rain interrupted proceedings. Groundstaff responded swiftly, covering the pitch and outfield in anticipation of a restart, raising brief hopes among spectators.

Those hopes soon faded as the drizzle intensified into steady rain accompanied by gusty winds. Water began accumulating on the covers, and the outfield showed no signs of recovery despite continued efforts. The stands gradually emptied as fans sought shelter from the relentless downpour.

With conditions failing to improve, match referee Javagal Srinath eventually called off the game, confirming a familiar outcome. Incidentally, the corresponding fixture between the two sides at the same venue last season had also been washed out.

A year on, the story remained unchanged—Eden Gardens once again left at the mercy of the rain.

Indian women's hockey team to tour Argentina for four-match series

NEW DELHI

The India women's national field hockey team is set to tour Argentina for a four-match series later this month, as part of its preparations for major international tournaments in 2026.

The matches will be played on April 13, 14, 16, and 17 at the National Centre of High Performance Athletics (CeNARD) in Buenos Aires. The tour is expected to provide the team with valuable exposure against one of the top-ranked sides in world hockey.

India and Argentina have shared a competitive rivalry in recent years, including a closely contested encounter in the FIH Pro League 2024–25, where the two sides played out a 2-2 draw before the result was decided in a shootout. Such high-intensity matches have contributed to the growing stature of both teams on the global stage.

The upcoming series assumes greater significance as the Indian side gears up for the FIH Hockey World Cup, scheduled to be held in Belgium and the Netherlands from August 15 to 30. It will also serve as a crucial preparatory assignment ahead of the Asian Games 2026 in Aichi–Nagoya later in the year.

Chief coach Sjoerd Marijne emphasised that the tour is aimed at testing the depth and adaptability of the squad. A group of 24 players has been selected, with the intention of providing opportunities to a wider pool of talent.

"This tour is about giving more players the chance to perform at the highest level. Argentina is among the best teams, and such matches will help us evaluate where each player stands," Marijne said.

He also highlighted the importance of teamwork and cohesion, noting that individual brilliance alone would not guarantee a place in the squad. "To earn a spot, players must show they can contribute to the team dynamic and work collectively under pressure," he added.

With four high-tempo matches lined up, the tour offers India a valuable platform to refine strategies, test combinations, and build momentum ahead of a packed international calendar.
